The cap and paraffined cork (6) are then removed from the glass barrel of the syringe and the plunger used as indicated in the illustration. The plug (2) not only serves to retain the serum in the barrel of syringe, but also serves as a washer, and the plunger (7) is pressed against it to expel the antitoxin. With this device it is not possible to inject air into the patient, and contamination of the serum is impossible. IvOoK Out. The Farbenfabriken of Elberfeld Co., write that a man by the name of A. C. Smith, hailing from Windsor, Canada, is sending cards by mail to druggists in the United States, in which he offers Phenacetin, Sulfonal, Trional and other patented drugs of that company, f. o. b., Detroit. The Farbenfabriken Co. claim that these goods are not bought through them, and that...
